

ABSTRACT

A temporal address unit configured to receive a request for a substance of data; and a data switch controller configured to generate one or more temporal addresses in response to the request for the substance.